contrary to traditional thinking, neuroscientists realized about a decade ago that the brain is constantly in flux she used to add, with a smirk that unprofane people can’t control when venturing into profanity, “and wash as far as possible, then wash possible.” never mind how they keep them still, what about the cat? they lick their fur all day long so now they lick paint? sounds like a quick way to an early grave to me i lost 2 stone in weight due to hyperemesis but gladly am only about 3-4 weeks away from hopefully delivering a healthy son and daughter and we are both delighted