the course will provide students with a strong conceptual understanding of physical events and, as concepts are understood, problems will be presented and solved by the use of mathematics.

Aditya Agarwal, vice president of engineering at Dropbox, was formerly the director of engineering at Facebook.

I think gratitude is so important, so much so that I've given it a whole chapter in my book.